

How Long Does LPA REGISTRATION TAKE?

A realistic timeline, so you can plan ahead.

An LPA cannot be used until it has been registered with the Office of the Public Guardian (OPG). Here's what the process typically involves, and how to avoid unnecessary delay.

1

Complete the forms

Your LPA paperwork is prepared correctly, naming your attorneys and the decisions they can make.

2

Certificate provider signs

An independent person confirms you understand the LPA and are not under pressure to make it.

3

Attorneys sign

Each attorney signs to accept their role and responsibilities.

4

Submit to the OPG

The completed LPA is sent to the Office of the Public Guardian for registration.

5

Statutory waiting period

A minimum waiting period allows anyone with concerns to raise an objection before registration.

6

Registered LPA returned

Once registered, your LPA is stamped and returned — ready to use whenever it's needed.

HOW TO AVOID DELAYS

Most delays happen because of small errors on the official forms. Having your LPA prepared professionally, with every section checked before submission, is the simplest way to avoid setbacks.

Don't wait until it's urgently needed.
